an I from a lengthy and interesting article a his paper we clip the following: It is impossible to give an adequate description of the operation and management of the State farms within the ordinary limits of this correspondence, but there are many points yet untouched which we will briefly mention, and every one interested in agriculture or in the proper treatment of criminals would not fail to profit by a visit and inspection of the farms. The convicts prior to the purchase of the Red place were kept entirely at the settlement in the course of the Dasaussure farm, but mire of the Dasaussure farm, but when the 1,800 acres were bought from Mr. Reed it was decided to make a division of the property so as to run two farms, with separate stockades and under different management. Both locations are wisely chosen, about one mile apart, on the most elevated points and within full view of each other. Mr. John T. Cooley, of Anderson County, had been in charge of the farm corrections and country in the of the farm operations and control of the convicts prior to the division, and he was transferred to the new location on the fleed place, where a small residence and some ancient structures were yet standing. For a time the convicts were housed and gnarded in such buildings as were at hand, but a comfortable, well-ventilated stockade was soon built, with every facility for keeping the convicts in safety and caring for their physical welfare. These features of management are apparent in every firection, and show the wisdom of Col. Neal in dealing with the convict problem Able-bodied men, healthy and contented laborers are surely requisite to making a success of his work, and his thoughtful ness along this line, aside from the humane treatment which is prompted by an anna-ble disposition, inures largely to the benefit of the S atc. The amount of labor obtained is in exact proportion to the physical and type and condition of the convicts, and every incentive dictates a just and cireful discrimination in their favor.

Mr. Cooley belongs to a family noted for energy and per-everance, and he has good judgment and sound discretion, with much experience in the management of farm laborers. He is firm as a rock, and while requiring the convicts to perform their full spare of work, he looks after their com source of work, he looks after their comfort in every respect. A number of buildings have been creeded since the stockade was completed, and the settlement now wears the appearance of a prisperous plantation of other days. One of the largest and best arranged stables in the State has been built for the sleek, fat mules that do the farm work. It is three stories high, and the upper stories are filled with corn, oats, peavine hay and other provender. The barn is one hundred feet long and fifty feet wide, with sufficient space between the long rows of stalls to drive two wagons abreast. A three story granary and wagon shed is admirably arranged, so that the grain crops can be properly two wagons abreast. A three story granary and wagon shed is admirably arranged, so that the grain crops can be properly kept, and where every manner of farm tool or implement is excefully housed. Not a plow stock or a tool of any kind is allowed to remain outdoors, but there is careful attention given to every piece of property belonging to the State. A blacksmith shop has been recently built, and a corps of carpenters are putting the finishing touches on the largest cattle barn we have ever seen in the Santh blackmith are apart ments for the shelter and beeding of cattle and sheep, and abundant storage room above for all the hay and provender that will ever be needed on the farm. All of these buildings are but up in the most substantial style and with the facilities of cheap lumber and combulsory labor, the cost is really inconsiderable. The bricks used in the fundations are made at the penitentiary in Columbia, but in the future the cost of transportation will be saved by the brick being made on the farms, as suitable clay is found there in abundance. The carpenters and bricklayers are drawn from the convict force, and when they get through with a building they become farmers again.

The DeSausaure place is in charge of our friend, Mr. Wm. T. McGill, of Anderson ing they become farmers again.

The DeSaussure place is in charge of our friend, Mr. Wm. T. McGill, of Anderson County, who has a life-time experience in farming and controlling labor, except the years of his childhood and the four years he spent in Virginia as "a good old rebel" life is the right man for the position he now occupies, and has a well-balanced judgment that is invaluable as a convict manager. Col. Neal has displayed good discernment in the selection of his lieutenants, but he was well acquainted with tenants, but he was well acquainted with both of them, and knew that he was making no mistake in employing McGill and cooley, who are doing most excellent service for the State in the development and management of these farms. Each of them has about seventy-five convicts unlar his charge practicular his charge practicular the der his charge, practically the same number of acres to cultivate, a like quota of mules, eattle, hogs and sheep to look after, and in every respect there is an absolute equality in the farm operations, so that a generous rivalry is maintained between them.

Holland's Store.

Cotton planting is being pushed now for all we are worth. A large area has been planted in corn, also a quantity of sorghum has been sowed for forage.

We never saw the wheat and out crop more promising. The outlook for fruit is rather gloomy.

It is certain we will have nothing like a full crop.

Our early gardeners had the most of their work to do over.

Our clever friend, Mr. Joe C. Winter, is not well yet, though improving. With the above reption we are generally well.

The St. y School at Shiloh, under the leadersh. of Rev. J. R. Earle, is in a flourishing condition and starts off most auspiciously.

The congregation at the above Church ast Sunday was large and appreciative. The pastor preached a good sermon. The singing was conducted by Prof. Milford, of Martin Township, who contributed no small part to the enjoyment of the day.

Mr. Milford was accompanied by his charming daughter. Quite a number of visitors were proposed from Mountain visitors were present from Mountain Creek, Cross Roads and other places. News is scarce.

Pendleton Items.

Rev. J. J. Back was in our town one day last week and wrote up several poli-cies for the Anderson Mutual Fire Insur-ance Co. We wish him much success.

Mr. Leroy Gaillard was in our town visiting his mother, Mrs. Alleatha Gaillard, who has been quite sick again.

Miss Mattie Eskew has been on a visit to her brother, Mr. S. L. Eskew.

Mr. Henry Hall, of Charleston, was on a visit to relatives for a few days last week. Rev. B. P. Reid and Elder H. P. Sitton attended Presbytery at Easley.

R. W. Gillespie was accidentally cut on the foot by an axe that flew off the handle in the hands of Mr. Craig. He was pain-fully but not seriously hurt The Baptists have a new organ in their

A Terrible Accident at Pelzer.

Williamston, S. C., April 11.—The most horrible accident that has ever occurred in the town of Pelzer was the burning of Jasper K Davis' house and personal effects and the roasting of his son, William Franklin, age 14 years, on Saturday night at 10:10 o'clock. The origin of the fire is a mystery that no one can explain. William Franklin, the poor unfortunate son, had gained permission of his mother to spend the night with a neighbor near by and left home about sundown, but about 9 o'clock he returned home and told his father that as he did not like to be away without his consent also he had concluded not to spend the night with his friend. The poor boy retired for the night about 9 o'clock, occupying a room up stairs, where he roomed with Abb Forkiner who boarded with Mr. Davis and worked in the mill. About 10:40 o'clock Mr. Davis was aroused from his slumber by a light in his room. He Davis and worked in the mill. About 10:10 o'clock Mr. Davis was aroused from his slumber by a light in his room. He quickly arose, awoke those of his family that were down stairs and ran upstairs to call his son, but upon entering the room he was met ay a volume of heat and smoke which completely stifled him. He could hear the agonizing cry of his perishing boy, but being by this time entire ly overcome with heat was forced back down the stairway. Repaining his breath the father started the second time to rescue his dying boy, as he told the writer, with the determination of bringing him from the burning building or dying in this flames with him. He succeeded in reaching the bed where his boy lay, grasping the foot board tightly with his hands, but he was motionless, death had come as a rehef and saved his poor body of further pain and torture. The father picked up the rosseld remains and hurried quickly from the building which was last failing in, but not until he himself was severely burned on the hee and head, and arms and hands cooked into a crisp. There was no lamp burning in the house, and exactly how the fire originated will possibly never be known Mr. Davis had moved with his family, a wife and eleven children, from Anderson several months ago but was formerly of Paul county, Georgia. His son's remains were interred in the Pelzer cemetery yesterday alternoon in the presence of the largest concourse of triends ever seen yesterday afternoon in the presence of the largest concourse of triends ever seen on a similar occasion. The kind people of Pelzer are doing all in their power to relieve the wants of his unfortunate family and satisfy them so far as it is in human power to do so.

Corner Creek News.

At this writing, Mr Ellitor, Corner Crock is on a boom. We are having some fine weather, and every one that has a plough is certainly running it this week planting cotton seed and corn, molasses cane and doing other farm work, which is needed to be done, as we have been having some rainy weather the past two weeks and got behind somewhat. Early corn that was planted is coming up and was bit down by the frest a little, but will be siright in a few days we think
